2. Six (6) Month Contract term.

As the particular issues involved in each individual case vary from case to case, we cannot guarantee a specific outcome or accurately predict how long it will take. As such, the dispute process may take more or less than twelve months. On average, clients remain active for 6 to 8 months, although for each individual case, this average can be reduced or extended based upon the promptness of the client to forward necessary information and upon the number and Circumstances of the issues being disputed on the individual's credit report. However, most state laws only allow a 6 month contract, in other states this contract will automatically renew without a written notice from client canceling automatic renewal prior to the date of the original 6 month term expiration.

3. Total Cost for Services

The total amount charged to you will depend on how many items on your credit report(s) you choose to have us correct or have investigated. CRA charges you after an item is deleted/corrected. This payment covers all of the work fully and completely rendered as described in Paragraph 1, CRA's Scope of Services, and section titled "pay for results", "Optional credit essentials" and "Identity Protection" are due at the completion of each deletion/correction or Optional service completed.

4. Surety Bond

Certain States require a statement by CRA informing the consumer about CRA obtaining and maintaining a bond and a place of business within the State. However, due to the fact that CRA bills consumers only after services are completed, CRA and certain subcontractors may not maintain a bond in any State nor a Headquarters in any State other than Wyoming.

5. Non-Profit Credit Counseling Services Notification

Consumers should be aware that non-profit credit counseling services are available which provide a range of financial and money management services. Additional information is available at the Federal Trade Commission website.

7. Consumer Credit File Rights Under State Law

You have a right to dispute inaccurate information in your credit report by contacting the credit bureau directly. However, neither you nor any "credit repair" company or credit repair organization has the right to have accurate, current, and verifiable information removed from your credit report. The credit bureau must remove accurate, negative information from your report only if it is over 7 years old. Bankruptcy information can be reported for 10 years.

You have a right to obtain a copy of your credit report from a credit bureau. You may be charged a reasonable fee. There is no fee, however, if you have been turned down for credit, employment, insurance, or a rental dwelling because of information in your credit report within the preceding 60 days. The credit bureau must provide someone to help you interpret the information in your credit file. You are entitled to receive a free copy of your credit report if you are unemployed and intend to apply for employment in the next 60 days, if you are a recipient of public welfare assistance, or if you have reason to believe that there is inaccurate information in your credit report due to fraud.

You have a right to sue a credit repair organization that violates the Credit Repair Organization Act. This law prohibits deceptive practices by credit repair organizations.

You have the right to cancel your contract with any credit repair organization for any reason within 5 business days from the date you signed it. If for any reason you do cancel the contract during this time, you do not owe any money.

Credit bureaus are required to follow reasonable procedures to ensure that the information they report is accurate. However, mistakes may occur.

You may, on your own, notify a credit bureau in writing that you dispute the accuracy of information in your credit file. The credit bureau must then reinvestigate and modify or remove inaccurate or incomplete information. The credit bureau may not charge any fee for this service.

Any pertinent information and copies of all documents you have concerning an error should be given to the credit bureau.

If the credit bureau's reinvestigation does not resolve the dispute to your satisfaction, you may send a brief statement to the credit bureau, to be kept in your file, explaining why you think the record is inaccurate. The credit bureau must include a summary of your statement about disputed information with any report it issues about you.
